

6 December 1974

Dear General Walters:

It is always a pleasure to host one of your visits. We were particularly delighted with your fine presentation to the graduating Advance Officers class on 5 December.

I am enclosing some cards that you left on my desk; also a copy of the "Intelligence Prospectus" which General Kelley mentioned to you. (Though I still believe that you had previously looked at this brochure.) As a note of possible interest I am including a copy of one of our recruiting brochures designed to attract capable enlisted men and women into intelligence specialties. As you may note from the format, we are striving to emphasize the broad area of interest of military intelligence today. About 20,000 copies have been produced here and distributed throughout the country.

We are looking forward to a return visit.

Sincerely,

HARRY H. HIESTAND
Brigadier General, USA
Commanding

LTG Vernon A. Walters
Deputy Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505